- (5) Have experience of conducting basic research projects or other basic research;
- (6) Do not have official employment relations with foreign units;
- (7) Can guarantee to work in home institutions for at least 9 months every year.

Young Chinese scholars without Chinese citizenship may apply if meeting conditions of (2) to (7). Post doc or graduate students may not apply. Previous awardees of the National Science Fund for Distinguished Young Scholars may not apply again.

Notification

- (1) The National Science Fund for Distinguished Young Scholars bases its evaluation on the academic attainment and creativity of the applicant. Please do not fill in the names of the main participants in the application form;
- (2) In the abstract part of the application, please provide “main academic achievements”;
- (3) In the project title section, applicant should put “research area” rather than specific research title;
- (4) In the appendix section, please provide statistics of the papers indexed and cited.

Application submission

Please follow the Outlines for Writing Proposals for the National Science Fund for Distinguished Young Scholars, provide accurate information, write the main text and attach relevant supplementary materials. The academic committees or expert panels of the home institutions should make rigorous selection according to the requirement, and sign the recommendation. After careful evaluation and verifying the status of full time employment of the applicant, they should submit the applications to NSFC in accordance with the requirement specified in the “Notification on several matters relevant to the application and completion report for NSFC’s project in 2009” (abbreviated as the Notification).

In 2011, the National Science Fund for Distinguished Young Scholars plans to fund 200 people, each for 4 years, with the funding of 2 million yuan per person (1.4 million yuan for those in mathematics and management science).
